

THE SAFE CLIMATE CAUCUS PRESENTS:

The Environmental and Climate Case for RFS Reform

— Congressional Briefing —

It's been more than 10 years since the Renewable Fuel Standard became law. Once touted as a 'green' policy, many in the environmental, conservation, and scientific communities believe the opposite: that the RFS may have been a net-negative - even a disaster - for the environment. Join us for a briefing to Congressional staff and the public and hear from academic, scientific and other experts on RFS impacts, and what can be done to fix this broken policy.
